Try to Top This!

In just under a year, Maddie Bradshaw has made her mark in young girl's and teen's jewelry: by revolutionizing the bottle cap and the magnet.

With a desire for something clever and magnetic for her middle school locker, this Dallas sixth grader's creativity and curiosity went to work. Taking bottle caps and placing artistic impressions inside, she then experimented with embellishments such as glitter and small delicate rhinestones - complete with a magnet affixed to the back.

Adored by friends and classmates, Maddie envisioned more. Thus the necklace was created, by attaching an expandable, yet durable "necklace cord" through the back circle ring magnet. The magnet is the element of surprise and provides diversity. "You can swap out the bottle caps almost like a little magnetic trading card," describes Maddie.

It is a necklace to be worn everyday for years to come, by simply changing out the bottle caps. "My sister and I love sharing them and just put up our different ones on our refrigerator and grab one as we walk out the door. It is that simple and fun!" says Maddie.

Success has followed success. At the age of ten (2006), Maddie started her business m3 girl designs, standing for Maddie, Margot (her 6 year old sister) and Mom. They have worked together to design and create not only these one-of-a-kind creations, but over the years m3 girls designs has grown from their decorated lap desks, clipboards, mirrors, shadowbox frames, coasters, bulletin boards and wastebaskets.

These magnificent, brilliant and imaginative necklaces are created during a 48-hour process, not including the design time! All are hand made, one-of-a-kind creations and vary per design through the embellishments. Current bottle cap necklaces (patent pending) include the various thematic designs: Animals; Candy; Trends; Dogs; Friends; Personalized Initials; Religious Crosses; Retro; Sea Life; Sports; Western; Zoo Animals; Rock Star; Diva.
