

Date: Mon, 5 Dec 2005 09:00:04 -0800 (PST)
From: "Karen Dudnikov" <tabberone@yahoo.com>
Subject: Re: - VeRO member of record - reply
To: RayPerman@aol.com
CC: EvaRogath@Chalk-Vermilion.com

I see the email you attached, I didn't start selling this fabric until this year and I don't see my name in the To: box. How can you say you contacted me? Look at your own email it was not sent to me, your email says you couldn't access Tabberone. Yet a simple seller search would have yielded my contact info had you really tried. I have been on eBay since 1998.

Additionally why should I take it up with King Features? They are not the ones who terminated my auctions on eBay giving me black marks.

Additionally a copyright certificate from the US Copyright office is to be considered on its face as a valid license for that design. King Features and Shamash released fabric for which they received a copyright. Therefore I was selling lawfully acquired copyrighted fabric.

Your problem is with the copyright office, not with me.

I asked you to remove the black mark so I wouldn't have to file a counternotice. You refused even though you know I wasn't an infringer.

As I stated before this could all be resolved quickly and quietly if you remove the black mark.

Karen

--- RayPerman@aol.com wrote:

> Dear Eva
>
> I am sorry to see that Karen has taken this action.
> Please have E Bay remove > the item again if that is possible as Karen may not > have received my recent > e mail which details the violation of copyright. If > it is not possible please > pass all correspondence to Joel Lever and I will do > likewise.
>
> Many thanks
>
> Ray
>
>
> Karen
>
> You will note my comments above. If you have > subsequently received my e mail > and have withdrawn the counterclaim then there is no > problem. If you have